

Musings...

By John Cutler

— Bennett Cerf made a lot of money writing inspired tragedies and perspired pot-boilers.

The largest candle ever made was set up as a memorial to Enrico Caruso. It cost $5,000, was 18 feet high, 7 feet around and weighed 3 tons...lit annually for 24 hours on All Saint's Day, it's expected to last 1800 years.

— A politician who said

Henry Wallace was his second choice as FDR's running mate for VP was asked who his first choice was: "Any son of bitch-red, black, white or yellow - who can get the nomination."

— I don't know what that Greek philosopher meant when he said, "No man can look at his feet without laughing."

— Winston Churchill: "I cannot help relecting that if my father had been an American and my mother British, instead of the other way around, I might have gotten here on my own."

— Is your watch lost if you know where it is at the bottom of the ocean?

Does a skunk have a sense of smell?

— Where do butterflies go when it rains? Incidentally, I have observed that butterflies prefer phlox to most other flowers. In our garden bees like rhododendron.

— Carlyle said it: "Gunpowder makes all men the same height." Does the H-bomb make all nations the same size?

— When he was on the U.S. Supreme Court bench, Felix Frankfurter admitted that he had never read the Constitution.

— Boston is said to be the place where the tide goes out but never comes in.

— Sometimes things are not so bad as they seem. They're worse.

— If a capenter is devised, is a reweaver dispatched?

— If you don't want to lose money in Las Vegas, don't take any with you.

— Have you heard of the tobacco tycoon whose bankroll went up in smoke?

— Job's turkey was so poor it had to lean against a fence to gobble.

— If you owe a bore a dinner, send it to him.
